

Advancing Integrated Water Management in Victoria

An invitation to join a half-day workshop

The Victorian Government's Water for Victoria recognises water as a foundation to our health and well-being, our communities, the liveability of our cities and towns and the resilience of our environment and our economy. In order to realise these benefits, research demonstrates that leadership and coalitions are essential elements in achieving the transformational change required.

Since launching in 2011, the International WaterCentre's (IWC) Water Leadership Program has established a significant network of water leaders across Australia. With almost 50% of alumni members residing in Victoria, there is opportunity to leverage this network and the individual strengths of its members, to explore opportunities to work collectively to influence and promote more integrated and sustainable forms of water management.

Facilitated by International WaterCentre's Leadership Specialist, Dr André Taylor and Clearwater's Program Coordinator for Regional Victoria, Charlotte Beresford, and supported by the Victoria Department of Environment, Land, Water and Planning, this workshop is designed for Victorian-based Water Leadership Program Alumni members to strengthen networks and explore opportunities to work collectively and build a coalition to advance integrated water management across Victoria.

- Strengthen your networks with members of the Victorian WLP Alumni;
- Engage with emerging water leaders to share challenges, insights and strategies related to collaborative planning and delivery of integrated water management;
- Explore opportunities to work collectively and build a coalition to advance integrated water management across Victoria

There is no cost to attend, but places are limited to 25 and a lunch will be provided, so registration and your commitment to attend is essential. Places will be allocated on a first serve basis, so we encourage you to register early to secure your place.
